COMMERCE CHAMBER GIVES LADIES FINE ENTERTAINMENT

Ladies' Night, given by the Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday, was a glorious success. From the opening gun when one hundred and thirty-five sat down to a bountiful supper, served by the Hardy Catering Co., to the end, when the last of the dancers left the Middlesex Sportsman's Association's Club House, there was not a dull moment. The entertainment preceding the dancing was of a high order and appreciated by the members and their guests. Law's Orchestra very acceptably furnished music during the meal and for the dancing. Singing, led by Charles Dockrill during a part of the meal hour, was lustily participated in by all. The decorations, consisting of flowers, streamers and large many-colored balloons, the artistic work of Mr. and Mrs. Thurston C. Trueworthy, added to the enjoyment of the occasion. The bon bon cap

ELECT JAMES O. HOLT BANK VICE-PRESIDENT

The Arlington Cooperative Bank held a Special Directors' Meeting on Tuesday evening in the Bank rooms, to fill vacancies caused by the passing of George G. Allen. Mr. Allen had been connected with the Bank for a great many years and was vice-president, a member and chairman of the Security Committee and a Director. Those elected were James O. Holt to succeed as vice-president and chairman of the Security Committee; A. Allen Kimball, member of the Security Committee, and Arthur P. Wyman, director. Tributes were given Mr. Allen who, because of his untiring efforts and conscientious work, was a highly esteemed and valued officer and worker in the Bank organization. A committee, elected to draw up resolutions, is as follows: James O. Holt, Frederick W. Hill, and John G. Brackett.

PLOWS OUT LATE FOR FIRST TIME THIS WINTER

Board Trusts Weather Report in Effort to Economize

Arlington snow plows got out late yesterday for the first time this winter. For the first time residents had occasion to complain of the condition of the streets. This was because of an effort at economy, combined with a misplaced trust in the report of the weather bureau. Walter F. Robinson, chairman of the Board of Public Works, said that the board had taken an especial pride in the work during this especially snowy winter in keeping Arlington streets in a noticeably better condition than those of some of the neighboring

A CHANCE TO WIN $50.00 IN GOLD

Now you children and grownups, too, get out your scissors for you are going to have a chance to win some money.

Starting with the current issue of the Advocate, there will appear in these columns each week for the ensuing fifty-two weeks, a series of very interesting pictures giving a humorous history of the automobile and entitled, "Out of a Motorist's Scrapbook".

Cut these pictures out and paste them in a scrapbook, for at the end of the year the Community Motors of 39 Massachusetts avenue is going to give you fifty dollars in gold for them. Neatness will determine in a large degree the winner of the prizes: twenty-five dollars will go to the first prize winner; fifteen dollars to the second and ten dollars to the third.

The employees of Community Motors as well as the Arlington Advocate staff, are excluded from the contest, so that the entire reader public of the Advocate is starting on an equal basis.

Quick Returns

The week of February 20th the Arlington Centre Packard Company listed a group of used cars in their advertisement in the Advocate. By Tuesday Mr. Handy said he could trace six inquiries directly to this ad.

"PRICES TO DROP STILL FURTHER" SAYS CHAMBERLAIN

Gold Supply Decreasing—Lower Wages, Too

The facts which were told to the Kiwanians at their regular weekly meeting yesterday noon by Francis Chamberlain, formerly of Arlington, were not very encouraging. He said real prosperity would never come until the international gold situation has been readjusted, wages have been reduced so that it pays to manufacture, farms have been put on a paying basis, and then not until prices have fallen to new low levels. The last is not necessary to prosperity, but must come before things are better, according to Mr. Chamberlain.

Mr. Chamberlain is a student and an authority on business conditions and business trend. He is associated with the Coffin & Burr bond house and distributor to the members charts which he had compiled. They depicted in graphic manner the range of commodity prices from 1855 to 1931, the bond prices, periods of recession, recovery, prosperity, depression, war and the presidents in office over that period. These same colored charts are now in great demand by bank-

Need for Quick Action

Letter to the Editor

Now that the election is over, perhaps we may reflect for a moment on the needs of our fellow citizens. Many of us in our comings and goings daily do not come across the hard cases of need that exist in Arlington, but a visit to the office of the Unemployment Emergency Committee or to the Welfare Council will convince even the most skeptical of the need for quick vital action in dealing with cases presented to these organizations.

There are hundreds of people in Arlington who are too proud to beg help and we want to assist those people in such a way that they will not lose their self-respect. That is the reason we do not publish in the Advocate harrowing cases which would touch your heart and your pocket-books.

Many such cases exist and Mrs. Roscoe Perry and her workers are doing splendid service in meeting their needs. Our part is a simple one—to stand back of the Welfare Council with our dollars to see that no call for help goes unheeded. Ten thousand Arlingtonians voted last Monday for its public officers. How many of us are willing to give at least ONE DOLLAR to help the families of the unemployed Arlington people? Let us face this problem in a true community spirit.

Send your contributions to John A. Bishop of the Menotomy Trust Co.

JOHN NICOL MARK,
Chairman of the Unemployment Social Service Committee.

BUSINESS WOMEN ORGANIZE ZONTA

Business women of Arlington have organized a Zonta Club. They have elected Mrs. Nita Moses, president; Mrs. Daphne Hughes, vice-president; Mrs. Harriet Blake, secretary; and Miss Isabelle Gratto, treasurer. Mrs. Bertha Murphy is chairman of the program committee and Mrs. Lucinda Spofford of public affairs. On the service committee is Dr. Edna F. Easter with Mrs. Ethel Benjamin and Miss Caroline Fandel as her assistants; a-

COLLINS DEFEATS WYMAN IN SELECTMAN CONTEST

Wins by Twenty-five Votes. O'Leary Only Candidate
Sponsored by Committee of 1000 to Be Elected—
Against Opposition.

TO HAVE RECOUNT IN THREE OFFICES

Mere rumors were confirmed when a petition for a recount in three offices was filed with the Town Clerk yesterday afternoon. Arthur P. Wyman, defeated candidate for re-election to the Board of Selectmen, has said that he did not wish for a re-count for himself, but the signers of the petition asked for a recapitulation in the vote for that office, notwithstanding.

The petitioners also asked for a recount of the votes for candidates for the Board of Public Works and Moderator. E. Caroline Pierce, the Town Clerk, states that the recount will begin either today or tomorrow, probably tomorrow. The ballots have been under police guard in the vault of the Town Clerk's office since the election.

MUSICALE IN TOWN HALL NEXT WEDNESDAY EVENING

The Arlington Teachers' Club will hold a Musicale in the Arlington Town Hall on Wednesday evening, March 11th, at 8.00 p. m. The concert is under the direction of Aaron Richmond and the main attraction of the evening will be Jean Bedetti, cello soloist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and the Nottingham Singers, a male quartet. Tickets are on sale at Blake's and by members of the faculty. Tickets may also be had by calling Arlington 3678-M.

10,915 voters of the town were drawn to the polls Monday to cast their votes in the annual town elections. Leonard Collins defeated Arthur P. Wyman, who was running for re-election to the Board of Selectmen, by twenty-five votes in one of the most determined campaigns held in many years.

William B. Barry defeated Jacob Bitzer for Moderator by 321 votes. Edward T. Ryan defeated Ralph Adams by 302 and Frederick W. Cutter by 986 votes in the three-cornered fight for the Board of Public Works. Three candidates also sought election for the Board of Assessors. John D. O'Leary defeated Augustus J. Power by 395, and Harry P. Hopkins by 1607 votes.

In the race for the School Committee, Mortimer H. Wells was elected for one year without opposition. There were four candidates with three openings for the three-year term. Clement J. Beaudet, with 6764, Joseph J. Bevins with 6105 and Therese N. Turner with 6005 votes were elected. Edward L. Shinn, the defeated candidate, received 5241 votes.

Re-elect Planning Board Members Charles M. MacMillin and Walton H. Sears, who were running for re-election to the Planning Board, were opposed by Edmund W. Hayes, but they were both successful. Mr. MacMillin received 6071, Mr. Sears, 5725, and Mr. Hayes, 4097 votes.

Only one other candidate running for re-election had any competition

ACCEPTS SUPERINTENDENCY OF ARLINGTON SCHOOLS

Parker T. Pearson has accepted the position of superintendent of schools in Arlington, in spite of the pressure that was brought to bear on him to stay in Weymouth, where he has served as superintendent for the past twenty-three years. Resolutions urging Mr. Pearson to stay in Weymouth were passed by the Selectmen of that town and again at the Town Meeting. Mr. Pearson will begin his duties here on the first of July.

Mr. Pearson is a graduate of Colby College and of Farmington Normal School, Farmington, Maine. Mr. and Mrs. Pearson have two daughters, Eleanor, who is a member of the class of 1931 at Jackson College, and Dorothy, who is a senior in the Weymouth High School.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

several hundred years ago it was impolite to use knives and forks at the table. Formerly all articles of food were cut into small pieces before serving, and the diners used their fingers to convey food to the mouth. Bread was never cut at the table, but broken.

and that was Mrs. Therese N. Turner for the School Committee. Only one candidate advanced with the approval of the "Committee of 1000" received enough votes to put him into office. The successful one was John D. O'Leary.

There was some talk of a recount to make sure of Leonard Collins' twenty-five vote advantage in the contest for the Board of Selectmen, but since Arthur P. Wyman himself was strenuously opposed, the measure was dropped by his constituents.

In Precinct Five there was only one candidate for Town Meeting member for one year. Consequently, several names were written in by the voters to fill out the required number of six. Those who received two or more votes were elected, but five people were tied for the sixth position with one vote apiece. They were Edward H. Greene, Edward A. Geary, Samuel F. Fernald, Paul A. Ziegler and Myrtle Erickson. The seventeen successful candidates in this precinct will elect the remaining member.

Elected Without Opposition

Other candidates who were elected without opposition were Mary Helen Teale and Arthur J. Wellington, trustees of Robbins Memorial Library for three years; Alfred W. Lombard, member of the Board of Health for three years; Richard L. Powers, Park Commissioner for three years; Roscoe R. Perry, Commissioner of Sinking Fund for one year; Joseph C. Holmes, commissioner of sinking fund for three years; Roscoe R. Perry, trustee of Pratt Fund for two years; Arthur J. Wellington, trustee of Pratt Fund for five years; Roscoe R. Perry, Trustee of Edwin S. Farmer Poor Widows' Fund, etc., for four years; Frank H. Walker, Trustee of Edwin S. Farmer Poor Widows' Fund, etc., for five years; M. Ernest Moore, Cemetery Commissioner for three years; Daniel M. Daley, Tree Warden for one year.

LADIES PUT ON TURKEY DINNER FOR SPORTSMEN

The ladies were in charge of the family night supper last week Thursday evening at the Middlesex Sportsman's Association. They put on a turkey dinner which was thoroughly enjoyed by a large crowd. The tables were decorated with carnations and there were favors for everyone. After dinner there were nine tables of bridge, with prizes for the high scorers. The younger members of the party bowled.

Mrs. Fred Harvey was chairman of the committee that arranged the evening. Her assistants were Mrs. Brad Swift, Mrs. Frank Reed, Mrs. Harold Tilton, Mrs. George Yale, Mrs. Richard Ambrose and Mrs. Roger W. Homer.

SECOND ONLY TO A NEW PACKARD — IS A USED PACKARD

I BELIEVE that a Used Packard car as we sell it, offers more for the dollar than any new car at the same price. It has the reliability, the comfort and the prestige of a new Packard at only part of the new car price.

A Few of the Typical Packard Values

A SECOND CAR in the family garage on a country estate was the use given this model. Its infrequent driving on station runs, shopping, etc., has kept it young in mileage and also in looks.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE GIVES
LADIES FINE ENTERTAINMENT

worn by each of the diners made it difficult to recognize even one's best friend. The business meeting itself was lively.

The entertainment was given gratuitously by some of our best local talent. Edward Hale, now of "The Strollers" but formerly of the "Showboat" Company, sang several songs, some of which were from the great Ziegfeld success. Miriam Hendrick Cahalin delightfully entertained with readings. Phyllis Blake and L. C. Bowe pleased their audience with several solos and duets. Mr. Bowe has been heard lately over the radio in the Quincy Oil and J. A. Cigar hours. Mr. Hale was accompanied by Mrs. Alma W. Allen, and Miss Blake and Mr. Bowe by Doris Hager.

The business meeting was unusual. The regular reports were omitted. President Colton displayed his youth and vivacity. Mrs. Nita Moses read interesting reports of the activities of the Commercial Division of the Chamber, and "Billy" Whowell as chairman of the division, proved that if any one could get away with scandal, slander and murder and make people like it, "Billy" was the man. He was profuse and sincere in his thanks to all who had helped in his division. He mentioned especially, Anna B. Callahan for her work in getting out 380 automobiles in the Santa Claus parade on a stormy mid-winter night. Mr. Whowell is convinced that our Arlington stores are worth visiting.

Letters of thanks were read from Mrs. Alice I. Golland, who has been sick, and from John, Philip and Arthur Hendrick and their sister, Mrs. Nolan, children of the late P. T. Hendrick, for the flowers, letters and kind words expressed by the members of the Chamber.

Adopt Holiday Recommendations
An important piece of business was completed when the members voted to adopt the recommendations of the holiday committee—James O. Holt, chairman. The desire of the members is to bring about a uniformity of closing among the merchants of the town. Consideration was given to all the merchants. It is felt that the public is in sympathy with a movement by which the business men and their employees may close without loss of good will or business in the long run. It was felt that it was too early to make any suggestion concerning the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

The recommendations adopted were:—
April 19th. Holiday on Sunday, celebrated on Monday. Close all day. May 20th. Holiday on Saturday. Close all day. June 17th will be left to dealers' option as this day has little significance outside of Boston. July 4th. Holiday on Saturday, close all day. September 7th. Labor Day. Holiday on Monday, close all day.
The following were elected as new members: Peter P. Colluci, master barber, 725 Massachusetts avenue; James I. Gillis, proprietor, 733 Massachusetts avenue; Eugene Watt, sign painter, 416 Massachusetts avenue; Charles M. MacMillin, sales manager, 80 Boylston street, Boston.

The dance will be long remembered. It was intended for old timers, as well as those proficient in modern dancing. There was the old-fashioned waltz, "The Pink Lady", dedicated to William Hauser; the Virginia Reel, with Hi Colton in front; several waltzes and a Paul Jones, Mr. Truworthy conducting. A Slipper Dance created considerable excitement. The elimination dance prize winners were Mrs. Susan Colton and William Watson. Mrs. Daphne Hughes with William Hadley won the prize offered for the Anna Callahan Special Balloon Dance.

Thanks for the evening's pleasure go to President Colton, who acted as chairman of arrangements, and his assistants, "Billy" Whowell and "Dave" Wilcox.

LARGE CONGREGATION
HEARS ARLINGTON SINGERS

A large congregation attended the evening service at the First Universalist church last Sunday. The Arlington Singers, under the direction of Arthur J. Keane, were much enjoyed. They sang four anthems, one of which was arranged especially for the occasion by a member of the chorus. Margaret H. Sandberger was at the organ and Laura Herring Kelly played the violin. Rev. Laurence L. Barber, pastor of the Orthodox Congregational church, brought a Lenten message, taking his theme from the story of the Foolish Virgins.

The guests were Mrs. Lewis E. Stickney of Appleton street, Mrs. Robert Parmenter of Bartlett avenue, Mrs. Thayer, president of the Brockton Woman's Club, and Mrs. C. H. Harvey of Richardson avenue.

EXPLAINS CIVIL SERVICE TO MEMBERS OF ROTARY

The address of Percy A. Harrison, Director of the Examination Bureau, Division of Civil Service of the Commonwealth, given before the Rotarians Wednesday, was exceedingly clear, complete and interesting. The storm had little effect upon the attendance.

Mr. Harrison was introduced by John Nicol Mark, chairman of the program committee. Mr. Mark suggested that the talk be entitled "The Intricacies of Civil Service," but the speaker unfolded the difficult subject to the satisfaction of all.

Civil Service strikes home because it is supported by public funds raised by taxes and we all feel taxes. In our country we have the Army, Navy and Civil Services. The Civil is divided into Federal, State and City and Town. Under the Federal come the Post Office, Immigration, Coast Survey and dozens of other branches. The State Service includes departments of Education, health, motor vehicles, etc., and under the City and Town are police, fire, sewer, water departments and many others.

In George Washington's day no definite plan was needed; the country was smaller and there were ex-army officers and others of distinction to whose appointment there was no protest. By the time of Andrew Jackson's presidency, party differences had arisen. Jackson felt that he had been deprived of a previous election in an exceedingly bitter political campaign. When he was elected his attitude was one of enmity and he ousted Government employees of the opposing party and appointed his political friends in their places. This was termed the "Spoils System", named from the old saying, "To the Victor belongs the Spoils".

Spoils System Could not Last

It is evident that such a system with its unfairness and economic waste could not long endure, but for many years it was difficult to stop. The evils grew. Those who held positions were anxious for their representatives to be re-elected and would often leave their duties and work to help their friends' campaigns. The number of applicants for each position grew so that ten to twenty would be seeking one position. President William Henry Harrison, who was sixty-seven years old, was literally pestered to death endeavoring to make his appointments from such a horde, and Garfield was assassinated by Guiteau, a disappointed office seeker. This shot aroused the country to the realization that all could not be satisfied. The agitation was towards the filling of office by "What the applicants knew and not by whom he knew."

A bill was passed called the Pendleton Law which required examination for applicants for many positions. This is the foundation of our Civil Service System. The three passing examinations highest qualified and appointments were made from the leader of the three. This a better class of men was secured and the work of appointment reduced. Moreover, this harmonizes with the American spirit of independence. This spirit is not satisfied to be in a position by virtue of friendship or political pull.

Continuity of Service a Gain
One of the gains in the Civil Service procedure is continuity of service. Only recently in the machinery for the enforcement of prohibition, many offices for enforcement were not subject to Civil Service and saloon keepers and bartenders were appointed by the saloon's political interests on the ground that they knew their liquor. Out of the million of people who found it necessary to look for other forms of livelihood, after prohibition, only a small portion could be employed in prohibition enforcement. Others began bootlegging. Many of these bootleggers were old friends of the enforcement officers. This made the enforcement of the law more difficult.

Mr. Harrison gave instances where the lack of Civil Service regulations in cities and towns had caused political turnovers with resulting expense. Tax rates are higher in many places because of lack of training and experience among officers and heads of departments.

Examinations for Police Departments are divided to cover general intelligence, not necessarily shown by a school diploma, training in life, record for holding a position, ability to remember faces from pictures, skill in writing a letter as a report, aptitude in learning things from the "Blue Book" and a fund of general information.

Some "Gems"

Mr. Harrison finished his excellent address with some "Gems" the Commissioners find in their daily work. These of course come from a large number of applicants and some are from the less informed of them. Here are some of the "Gems".

Q. What do you understand by the term habeas corpus?

A. Habeas corpus is a disease from which human beings sometimes become unconscious.

A. Habeas corpus means a body in several places which appears to be murdered.

A. Habeas corpus is the worst form of insanity and may be arrested without a warrant.

Q. When is an arrest at all times justifiable?

A. Never. Arrests may be necessary or hurried but if they should be justifiable it is a case for the district attorney and police officers have no power.

Q. What is the difference between a felony and a misdemeanor?

A. A felony usually comes on the little finger and results in death, but a misdemeanor affects the neck and is curable.

Q. Name six important bones of the body.

A. Right arm, right leg, left arm, left leg and two ribs.

Q. You arrest a man for a felony. On the way to the station, he convinces you that he is not the guilty party. What would be your course of action?

A. He would not convince me. If he would convince my superiors that is up to them, if not he must convince the judge which is not easy for anyone. When I start an arrest, I finish it or get hurt.

Q. X, whose furniture is being put on the street for non-payment of rent, appeals to you, a police officer, to stop this procedure on the ground that his furniture will be ruined. What would you do and why?

A. I could be courteous to poor X for I would be sorry for him. I am not able to stop the procedure because I am only a criminal officer, but if it was raining I could hold an umbrella over X or send him a charity place.

It is very hard sometimes for an officer to be in two places at once. Murders could be prevented if the parties who are murdered should notify the police beforehand.

Who was Abraham Lincoln and what did he do for the United States?

1. The first president of the U. S. and he signed the armistice.
2. Was more than any other president—he was honest.
3. He formed the League of Nations.

How are peanuts procured?

1. By shelling.
Who was Mary Baker Eddy?
1. Spy during the Civil War.
2. Geo. Washington's wife.
3. Congresswoman.
4. Made the first American flag.
5. Founder of the D. A. R.

With what event or period in American history do you associate the following? Answer in few words.

Patrick Henry:
1. Saint Patrick.
2. Drove the snakes from Ireland.
3. Give me death or leave me alone.
4. Taxation without representation is Tariff.
5. Wrote the Star Spangled Banner.
6. Spanish War Veteran.
7. The Father of our Navy.
8. A great statement.

The Hessians:
1. Connected with Civil Service.
2. Turkeys.
3. Mountain range in Turkey.
4. Tribe of Indians.

Eli Whitney:
1. Inventor of the Gin Mill.

DEATHS

HENRY L. SHERMAN

Henry Luther Sherman passed away suddenly early last Saturday morning at 106 Hillside avenue, where he had made his home. Mr. Sherman had recovered only a few days before from a severe heart attack and had been able to go to his Boston office during the previous days of the week. He was a food products broker. He was born in Uxbridge fifty-seven years ago, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sherman.

Surviving him are his widow, Laura, whose home is in Providence, and three sons—Roger, whose home is in Porto Rico, David, who came from Florida for the funeral and Howard, who lives with his mother in Providence. The Christian Science service was conducted Tuesday afternoon at the Long Memorial Chapel, North Cambridge. Burial was in Lexington.

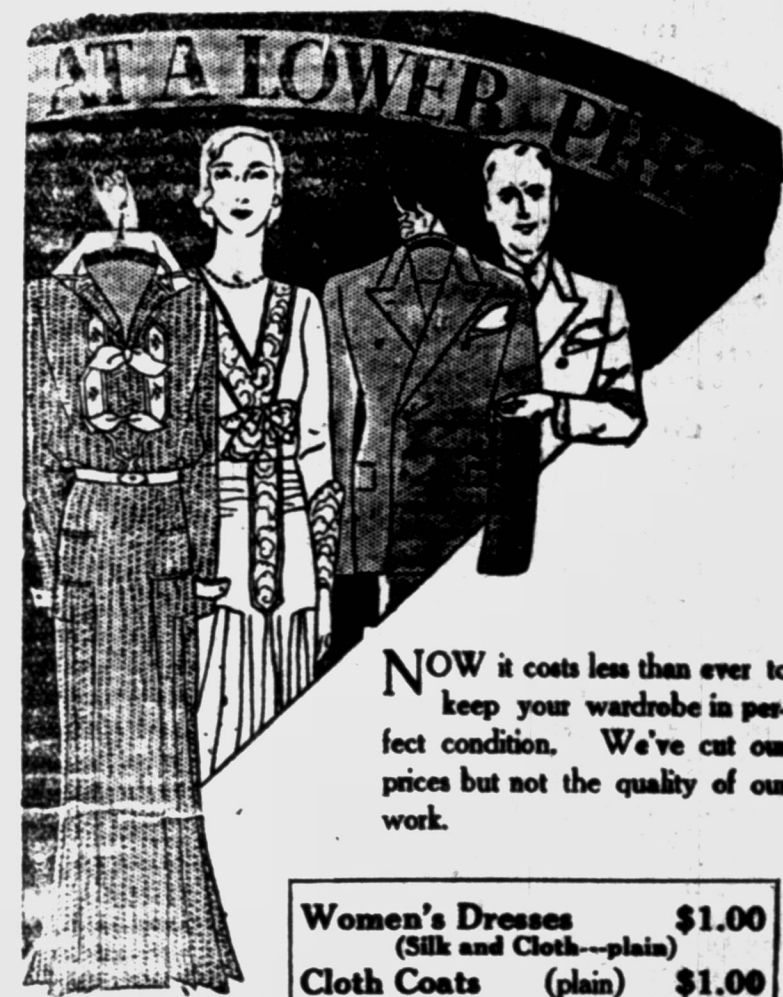

THOMAS J. WELCH

Funeral services for Thomas Joseph Welch, a life-long resident of Arlington, who died on the twenty-eighth of February, were held Monday morning from his late home, 11 Beacon street, and were followed by a solemn high mass of requiem in St. Agnes church. The pastor, Rev. Matthew J. Flaherty, was the celebrant; Rev. Joseph P. Murphy, deacon, and Rev. Donald F. Simpson, subdeacon. Rev. Fr. Bortignon and Rev. Fr. Daratella of the Stigmatine Order in Waltham, sat within the chancel.

The pall bearers were Mr. Welch's nephews, Richard and Leonard Welch of Cambridge, and Matthew and Richard Daly of Waverley, and his cousins, James and Daniel Murphy of Arlington. Burial was in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery.

Mr. Welch, who passed his fifty-ninth birthday on the 29th of January, was the son of Richard A. and Ellen Murphy Welch. His father was an Arlington contractor. As a boy Mr. Welch attended the Russell School. He was a member of the Holy Name Society.

Drive a
Twin-Ignition
NASH
—It's a new experience!

ONE of the chief reasons for the flashing acceleration and smooth speed and power of Nash Eight-80 and Eight-90 models is aircraft-type Twin-Ignition. In each cylinder, two spark plugs placed opposite each other, fire at precisely the same instant. The highly compressed gas ignites at two points. It is burned more quickly, efficiently. The result:—A more powerful explosion—instant responsiveness—noticeable gasoline economy.—The moment you step on the accelerator, you will realize the important difference Twin-Ignition makes. Let's go for a ride together—soon.

DEATHS

MISS MACIE SEABURY

Miss Macie Seabury's many friends in Arlington will be saddened by the news of her death which occurred in Los Angeles, California, on the fourth of March. Miss Seabury, who was seventy-nine years old, was librarian at the Arlington Heights Branch of the Robbins Library for about forty years.

MRS. GIOVANNA OPPEDISANO

The funeral of Mrs. Giovanna Oppedisano was held at her late home, 89 Decatur street, yesterday morning, and shortly afterwards a Requiem mass was celebrated at St. Agnes church.

A host of friends attended. Nearly seventy-five automobiles waited outside the church during the service. The floral pieces were numerous.

Mrs. Oppedisano was born in Italy 80 years ago. She and her husband, Pasquale, came to this country twenty years ago with their family and settled in Arlington. They have always been helpful to their fellow-countrymen, which accounts for their popularity.

The deceased is survived by her husband, by two sons—Rosario, generally known as Charles, and Joseph—and by three daughters—Mrs. Elizabeth Camillo, Mrs. Mary Mesite and Mrs. Rose Massafiero. All but the last named are residents of Arlington. Mrs. Massafiero lives in Italy. In addition to the husband and children, there are fifteen grandsons and twenty-one granddaughters.

The interment was in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery.

GEORGE C. TEWKSBURY

George C. Tewksbury of 45 Claremont avenue, passed away Thursday afternoon, March 5th. While Mr. Tewksbury had been in poor health for over a year, his death was not expected and it came as a shock to his neighbors at Arlington Heights, where he had lived for over forty years. He is survived by his wife, Minna Ware Tewksbury, and one daughter, Mrs. J. Herbert Mead of 206 Appleton street. The funeral will be held Saturday at 2.30 p. m. from his late home. Interment will be at the family lot at Mt. Auburn, Cambridge.

nances—Miss Caroline Pierce, chairman, Miss Anna Callahan and Mrs. Coleman; membership—Mrs. Susan Cotton, chairman, Mrs. Grace Curry and Miss Frieda Binnig; classification, Dr. Edna F. Easter.

Several meetings have been held within the past few weeks, the first at the invitation of Miss Anna B. Callahan, who was urged by the members of the Cambridge Zonta to form a similar organization in Arlington. The purpose of the club is much the same as that of the Rotary. Miss Erle F. Dally of Cambridge explained this to those who attended a meeting held last week Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Hughes.

It is planned to hold a luncheon meeting on the second Thursday of each month and a dinner on the fourth. The first luncheon meeting will be held next Thursday at Mrs. Coleman's.

PROGRESSIVE LUNCHEON FOR FEDERATION FUND

Wednesday noon, Mrs. Walter J. Vaughn welcomed at her Park avenue home the twelve guests who were included in another of the Arlington Heights Study Club gatherings for the benefit of the Federation Foundation Fund plan. Some time was spent in sociability around the cheerful open fire, after which the company adjourned to the dining room where the table was prettily set with flowers and candles. Here they were served the first course of the luncheon.

Immediately afterwards the group travelled across the street to the home of Mrs. Arthur J. Covell where the rest of the luncheon was to be served. Spring flowers and a Britany tea set adorned the table here. Then, refreshed by dessert, the company adjourned to the living room for a delightful and instructive afternoon. Mrs. Covell gave a talk on the Great Masters of Art, illustrated by many copies loaned to her by Mrs. Cyrus E. Dallin and the Art Museum, as well as by some from her own collection.

LEND-A-HAND PROFITS BY DELIGHTFUL AFTERNOON

The Sowers' Lend-a-Hand profited by and their friends enjoyed with them a delightful afternoon on Tuesday at the Pleasant street home of Mrs. William D. Elwell. Nancy Byrd Turner read some of her own poems, prefacing them by the story of how she came to write, and Ethel Martin played piano solos. After the program the members served delicious tea, sandwiches and cake.

The dining room was given over to the sale of very beautiful flowers and there was also offered for sale a variety of attractive cake and candy. Mrs. Elwell was chairman of the afternoon. She was assisted by Mrs. Guy Sanger, who helped by Mrs. Charles Garvin and Mrs. George Yale, presided over the cake and candy, and by Mrs. F. L. Eames and Mrs. Harold Rice who, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Saul, sold flowers.

MISS MULLIN'S PICTURE IN FLORIDA NEWSPAPER

A picture of Elsie Mullin, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Mullin, appeared in the Florida newspapers recently in connection with the opening of the "Gala Gainsville Franklin Motorcade", connecting link of highway between Miami and Canada.

Mrs. Mullin is the former Beatrice Spurr, the daughter of Howard W. Spurr of Arlington. Miss Mullin is a sophomore at Brennan College in Gainesville, Florida, and a very popular member of the Phi Mu Sorority there.

GREAT LAUGHS IN "TOMMY" FRIENDS OF DRAMA PLAY

friends. Everyone had a marvelous time. "Tommy", the play produced, probably had very little of real dramatic value, but it certainly provoked laughs all the way through.

Virginia Hunt, an experienced director in spite of her youth, coached the play, and her fine sense of comedy made itself manifest through all the characters. Hardly a laugh was lost.

The entire cast depicted itself with great credit. Gertrude Judson Lufkin was very sweet and appealing as the leading lady. She showed herself capable of greater things in the few flashes of real drama which her character afforded. Ernest Hesselstine, Jr., who played opposite her, proved himself versatile beyond his experience.

Rupert Gage Dutton, the suave political boss and bachelor brother of the family, had the longest part in the play and one of the most important. He was subject to a great deal of praise on his performance.

Eva Lombard Ellison was ease itself in her part. Her character could not have been more perfectly portrayed. The pure comedy role of the play was taken by Norval F. Bacon. He wrung from his part all that was in it and perhaps a little bit more. The audience laughed so long and so heartily when he appeared in an old-fashioned night-shirt that the wait was positively embarrassing to the actors.

John Kester Winner came nearest to being the villain of the piece. As usual, he played his part without reproach. Ernest Alton Washburn gave the audience a fine picture of the judge. He was the perfect politician. Dorothy Ryder also had a smaller bit, having only a few lines, but she made the most of those.

Adelaide Stickney Johnson acted as technical director of the play, with the able assistance of Mrs. D. R. Kennedy. Howard Davies, the stage manager, had as his assistants, Sidney Hegg, Richard Cromwell and the members of the Town Hall staff, including Superintendent Carmody. Mary E. Lewis did her usual splendid piece of work on the make-up. The tickets were in charge of Mrs. F. A. Tibbitts. The flowers were furnished through the courtesy of W. E. Lenk of Belmont Gardens.

Delightful music preceding the performance and between the acts was played by the Arlington Trio, composed of Olive Doe Harris, violin; Florence Colby, cello; and Mary Louise Wood, piano.

The ushers were Richard H. Bird, Walter T. Chamberlain, Homer W. Collins, Clinton M. Haig, Eben P. Lufkin, Parker Wood and Harold A. Yeames.

Mrs. J. Herbert Mead, the club president, was absent because of the death of her father, George Copland Tewksbury, that same day.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts PROBATE COURT

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of George G. Allen, late of Arlington, in said County, deceased.

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for probate, by Fannie D. Allen who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her, the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the twenty-third day of March A. D. 1931, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Arlington Advocate newspaper published in Arlington, the last publication to be on one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, JOHN C. LEGGAT, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, the twenty-eighth day of February in the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one. LORINE P. JORDAN, Register.

MORE NAMES ADDED TO RED CROSS LIST

The additional names of those contributing to the Red Cross Drought Relief are:

Women's Circle, Trinity Baptist church
George H. Cox
Mrs. T. W. Barnard
Mrs. Emma Doherty
M. Ernest Moore
M. E. L. Robinson

The sum raised to date is $2,892.32. Although the quota for Arlington was $5,500.00, the local chapter are hoping to raise $3,000. There is necessary about $108.00 to make the Arlington share $3,000.00.

No doubt there are many who are intending to make their contribution. DO IT NOW! Communicate with Mr. Nelson J. Bowers of the Arlington Five Cents Savings Bank or Mrs. H. W. Reed, 11 Wellington street.

TOWN TOPICS

A plate glass window was broken in Dewire's Store, at 98 Broadway on election night. The police found that the breaking was accidental.

Miss Violet M. Payn-Sills picked the first dandelion to bloom in the Town Hall park on the first of March, in time to give it shelter from Tuesday's snowstorm.

There will be a charity whist at the home of Mrs. Mary Perry, 243 Lowell street, Thursday night, March 12, under the auspices of the Massachusetts Catholic Women's Guild.

The telephone company reported Wednesday night that a coin box in an apartment at 8 Dorothy road had been removed and broken into. The apartment has been unoccupied for a month.

Charles Davis, 11, of 181 Waverly street, was slightly injured Wednesday afternoon, when he ran from the sidewalk and was hit by an automobile operated by James Garland of Manchester, N. H. The boy continued on his way to school.

Rev. Charles F. Lancaster of the Church of the Good Shepherd in Reading, will conduct the service this evening at the Church of Our Saviour. On next Sunday Rev. Guy E. Miner of St. Mary's, Newton Lower Falls, will preach.

Mrs. Gladys Croft of Highland avenue has sufficiently recovered from her recent attack of pneumonia to leave the Symmes Arlington Hospital, her friends will be glad to hear. She is spending a week with her mother, Mrs. Brenton, at her home on Park avenue.

At the Arlington Heights Baptist church next Sunday, Rev. F. W. Lockwood of Watertown will preach at the morning and evening services. The morning sermon will be on "A Woman's Will", and the evening's, "The Man Who Laughs".

Friends of M. Ernest Moore of 361 Massachusetts avenue will be glad to learn that he is steadily improving since his operation Tuesday. Mr. Moore's face had swollen from an infection in the antrum and medical attention was necessary.

The alarm of fire from box 45 Wednesday night was for a blaze in a rubbish barrel in the cellar of the house owned by Rebecca Foster at 9 Revere street. Later in the evening an alarm sounded from box 72 for an automobile on Park avenue, registered to Dana Olson, 49 Park avenue. Slight damage.

Edward Brayn of 11 Richardson avenue was struck by an automobile Wednesday morning when it skidded on Massachusetts avenue, near Daniels street. Mr. Brayn was slightly injured. The machine was operated by Fred E. Taylor of Somerville.

Miss Anna Crane entertained her bridge club at luncheon at her home on Cleveland street Wednesday. Prizes for high scores in the game which followed went to Mrs. M. E. Curtis, first; Mrs. Elizabeth Cain, second, and Mrs. Frank Goguen, consolation.

Hostesses at the whist party which St. Agnes Altar Guild will hold in the Parochial School Hall next Wednesday afternoon will be Mrs. J. H. McCarthy, Mrs. Catherine Keaney, Mrs. J. Mooney, Mrs. John Doyle, Miss Elizabeth Hines, Miss Ellen Hines and Miss Catherine Barry.

Early Monday morning there was an alarm from box 45 for a fire in the two-family house at 1067 Massachusetts avenue. It was caused by a short circuit and did considerable damage to the inside of the house, although the flames did not break through. The house is occupied on the first floor by Christian W. Goeppel, and on the

Uncompromising Justice

THE story of the death of Louis Barchey, fifteen-year-old Arlington Heights boy, told in England, in France, even in Italy or Russia, would be heard, we feel sure, with the same expressions of sympathy and horror with which we receive the tales of disregard of human life in the latter country. And with reason.

The father, leaving his store to investigate the cause of a peculiar scraping noise, finds, first, a part of his son's cart—that son who but a moment before he had seen alive and well—and then his dead body flung to the side of the road. Here is tragedy.

The night was snowy and the visibility, consequently, poor, but the roads in that part of Lexington, just a little way over the Arlington line, are reasonably well lighted. A driver might have failed to see the boy in time to avoid hitting him. It is beyond probability that he could strike both cart and boy and drag with him a part of the cart—which it is thought was the cause of the scraping noise—and go on without realizing what he had done.

Such an accident gives emphasis to the recent report of the Travelers' Insurance Company which shows that the automobile fatalities of the past eighteen months in this country are greater than were those of the eighteen months of the war. No reason for the large number is given, but there is an analysis of the causes of the accidents. In cases where pedestrians are involved the pedestrians themselves have been at fault in most of the cases.

Whether this was true of the Barchey boy it is impossible to say, though those who reached the scene of the accident soon after his body was found believe that he was either at the extreme edge of the road or on the sidewalk. It is, however, a fact that children and older people, too, often run the risk of accident by walking on the side of the road. Children who have express wagons also often endanger not only their own lives, but those of others, both by drawing these wagons in the road and by coasting in them down hilly side streets and into main travelled roads. It is no unusual sight to see a youngster coast in this way into Massachusetts avenue, avoiding the traffic by a marvel of quickness and skill.

But some time his skill and quickness may fail—and there will be another accident.

But often the fault is the motorist's. He is exceeding the speed limit. He fails, perhaps, to allow for poor visibility. Accordingly, he cannot stop in time to avoid hitting the pedestrian.

There are many accidents and usually juries refuse to convict the operators of the motor vehicles of manslaughter. In consequence, their offense goes unpunished or receives a very light punishment. It is to improve this situation that there is talk of placing a new crime in the criminal code of several states within the next few years.

It will be known as "involuntary homicide" and will deal exclusively with automobile, motorcycle and airplane deaths. It has already been recommended to the New York legislature that this be made a part of the criminal code calling for a penalty of not more than five years in prison or a fine of $5,000 or both. The conclusion of the New York report explains the proposal as follows:

"It has been said that grand juries fail to indict and trial juries fail to convict persons charged with killing others in this manner for various reasons, among which is expressed the thought that to be charged with manslaughter for such an offense is too strong a charge, especially where no intent to kill is an element of the crime."

Such a law would not of course reach the hit-and-run driver, but it might possibly reduce the number of such drivers. However, for the man who could go on without stopping to see what injury he had done his victim, whether, perhaps, immediate aid might not save his life, for the man who could leave another human being to suffer by the roadside until some passer-by should come to his aid; for such a man it is impossible to recommend mercy. He should receive justice, the sternest and most uncompromising.

A Bright Outlook

THE new children's room at the library will, it seems to us, have an influence on Arlington's future. With attractively bound books within his reach, and low tables where he may examine them at ease, even the smallest child will be drawn to choose a story or picture book for himself. He may not choose the best book, but he is bound to choose a good one, since the volumes in the library are all carefully selected.

Having chosen it for himself, he will probably read it, and will come back for another. As the librarians are trained in ways of rousing the interest of the children in the best books he will soon have the habit of reading good books. And this habit is like any other—easier to keep than to break.

So among Arlington's future citizens there will be more readers of good books. And readers are also thinkers, men of ideas, men who give no consideration to what is best for their town and who are anxious to take part in its affairs.

But after all, that is what a library is expected to do. The Robbins Library has only been helped to do it more effectively.

We think, however, that the new addition will do more than this. Frequenting a place of such beauty as is the children's room will form in our young people tastes which will demand for their satisfaction surroundings of equal simplicity and dignity. These characteristics they will demand in the public edifices in whose building they will in the future have a part. And so we may hope that our children will make of their home town a place of greater beauty.

The recreation room also will play its part in their development. Here they will learn to express themselves and will experience the pleasure of self-expression. All the children who play act on the miniature stage in the library basement may not grow up to be members of the Friends of the Drama, but they will acquire a certain confidence in their ability to express themselves, which will make for the greater happiness of them and their fellows.

Here and There

The annual town election is a thing of the past, but it will be a long time before people cease talking about this one. Twenty-five votes is not very much, but remember that we predicted that one vote might swing the election one way or the other. It would not have taken many of those single votes to turn things upside down, as far as the battle for selectman was concerned. But in the meantime we are congratulating Leonard Collins and wishing him all the luck in the world.

"We must fight on, if we go to the bottom", said Commander Homer C. Blake. The "Committee of 1000" went to the bottom all right, but we don't know much about the fighting. Perhaps the recent defeat will stir a few red corpuscles among the old guard.

There are three members of the Board of Selectmen, of course. The policies of the newest member as well as those of the oldest member, are very well known. But those people who wonder about such things are a little bit uncertain about the third member. Which way will the wind blow? We think we know.

Yes, sir, about seventy per cent of the voting population of the town seen their duty and they done it last Monday. But we venture that the excitement of this campaign would have brought out even more had a little more work been done for some of the candidates and had all the people known what precinct they were in and where to vote.

Of course it is the duty of a newspaper to tell the public those little things, but we can truthfully say that we did our best. The boundary lines of each precinct were described in two different issues, and the polling places were set off in prominent positions on the sheet more than once.

But we might have done more. We might have published a map of the town, with the new precincts outlined, and devoted a full page to the same. The fact is that we offered to give a full page if the Redistricting Board would supply us a plate from which to print, but somehow or other it never got into the Advocate, and it was not because we were not more than willing, either.

E. Caroline Pierce, the Town Clerk, added a great deal of excitement to the election in spite of the fact that she was not running for re-election. She had a huge blackboard placed in the lobby of Robbins Memorial Town Hall. The results of the count in each precinct were posted upon that as they dribbled in. And maybe it was not exciting to watch them go up. It was interesting, too, to watch the faces of the various candidates who could not tear themselves away.

The writer went up to the Town Hall about eleven o'clock intending to stay for a few moments to see how things were going and then come right home. But those few minutes lengthened into four hours. Mr. Wyman led off with a very good advantage, but it was not long before Mr. Collins began to cut that down. It was ding-dong all the way with Mr. Wyman's lead being opened up and then bottled down again. It was a fairly cold night but perspiration flowed very, very freely in spite of that.

Four or five policemen would tramp in with a ballot box and carry it upstairs and pretty soon the results would be on the board. Then we would stand around looking at the most recent results and trying to figure out which precinct would come in next and what effect the new figures would have on the total. In about ten or fifteen minutes someone would say, "Well, I told my wife that I would be home at eleven-thirty, and here it is half past one. I guess I had better be going." There would be a general movement toward the door.

But at that moment the officer would say, "Stand back please," and another box would come in to the sound of trumpets and a fellow couldn't go home then. So it went until three o'clock in the morning.

The constituents of Leonard Collins seemed to be very confident at all times. Even when a precinct was posted giving a large majority to Mr. Wyman, there would be general handshaking all round and displays of extreme pleasure. Luke Manning would examine a little card in his hand and get all excited because Wyman carried the precinct by only two hundred and fifty where he had figured two hundred and fifty-one. "There's a gain!", he would say. And there would be more handshaking all around.

Mr. Wyman's rooters viewed these demonstrations with more or less amusement. Was not Mr. Wyman more than two hundred in the lead with only two precincts to go? Precincts Ten and Two were the only ones not yet heard from. Arthur would probably get more than an even break in Ten, and Two was right down in his ball-and-wall and would give him very good support, even if not a majority.

But Collins' boys certainly knew what they were talking about. It turned out that Precinct Ten had changed a bit since it was cut off from old Precinct Six. If Mr. Wyman had held his own there, he would have been elected, but he lost by fifty-six votes.

That was where the tide turned, but no one knew it at the time. Mr. Wyman still had a lead of 152 with Precinct Two the only one not heard from. It was thought right up to the last minute that he would hold enough of that advantage to win—that is, his friends thought it. Even after rumors from Precinct Two headquarters began to come in that Collins had won by twenty-three votes, no one went home. One crowd did not quite dare to hope for so much and the other side wouldn't believe it.

In all probability, some of the old guard don't believe it yet. It must be pretty difficult to take one on the chin after being in undisputed control for years. Of course the past few elections have not been quite so easy, but they have gone pretty well, considering.

But cheer up, lads. There are other years coming. Arthur made a flattering showing, considering the amount of work done for him. Of course, five or six on his committee really worked their heads off. But the others? Good heavens, they weren't in it with Luke Manning and Bulger Lowe and a host of others. Those boys know what they were after, and went out and got it. SOPHISTICATED ONLOOKER.

Fifty Years Ago This Week

William Penn Hose Company had a dance at the Hose House Tuesday evening. The evening was a very stormy one, but enough braved the inclement weather to meet the expenses of the party. Management and music were both excellent.

The "Universalist Young People" had a most delightful party in Town Hall on the evening of February 25. George W. Storer was chief manager and, ably supported by Messrs. J. P. and C. S. Richardson, W. H. Cutter and A. W. Peirce, everything was conducted to the satisfaction of the guests.

Considerable fun has been poked at "Highland Hose" during the past week. When the bell rang for 12 o'clock Wednesday noon, some of the fire ladders mistook it for a fire alarm. The carriage was run out and they "hipered" quite a distance down the Avenue before the mistake was discovered.

"The strong March wind has come at last, with wind and cloud and"—the poet says, "changing skies", but we have seen no change, only a pelting rain so far. Five days of such weather is disgusting.

Town Meeting

The annual Town Meeting opened next Monday, the polls being opened at one o'clock. Unless appearances are deceitful, there will be no sharp contest for any of the various offices to be filled. The present boards have been faithful and their records, as shown in the several reports which make up the town book, are quite satisfactory. The order, system and convenient arrangement of the town business as conducted by the clerk and treasurer, makes it stand out in sharp and pleasing contrast to most towns and might well be copied by our larger and smaller neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Champney Hughes held an "at home" on Wednesday afternoon and evening at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Ludwig, 20 Whittemore street. The house was prettily decorated with daffodils, pinks and roses. Mrs. Hughes received in an Alice blue princess gown of silk crepe de cygne, combined with lace and net. Mrs. Ludwig was in a beautiful black chantilly over taffeta. Guests were presented with a monogram box, containing a piece of the wedding cake as a memento of the occasion.

The junior class of Miss A. W. Homer's dancing school held its closing party in Associates Hall, Wednesday afternoon. Such a large group of children daintily attired and very largely in white, made a sight to gladden weary eyes and was the impersonation of youth, joy and abounding vitality trained to graceful movement and courteous deportment. Mrs. Frederick H. Viets, Mrs. Walter A. Lauer and Mrs. Thurber C. Adams matronized the party, wearing dressy afternoon calling costumes.

Mrs. Alex Livingstone generously offered her attractive and slightly home on Cliff street for a whist party held Tuesday afternoon in the interest of the State Federation of Women's Clubs' bazaar to take place next week in Horticultural Hall, Boston. There were eighteen ladies present. Included in the number was the president of the club, Miss Mary Hardy. Prizes were given and were taken by Miss Edith Kendall and Mrs. Charles Brockway, as highest scorers. Mr. F. A. Horter secured the consolation prize.

Friends of the family received engraved announcements of the marriage of Marion Beatrice, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Houghton Rowe, of 12 Palmer street, Arlington, and Mr. Horace Sinclair Holt, elder son of Mr. Ira W. Holt, principal of the Arlington High School. The couple were wedded on Thursday, March 1st.

Mr. George O. Russell who has been in Pinehurst, S. C., for the past two weeks, was joined by his wife this week. The W. A. Tafts also left the first of the week for Pinehurst, where they intend spending several weeks.

EFFICIENCY PRAISED

Editor of Arlington Advocate,

Dear Sir:

When the officials of our town have rendered good service to the taxpayers and citizens, it is the firm belief of the writer that special commendation should be registered just as speedily as we take them to task when they err at all of us do.

This winter our people have had 100% service from our Highway Dept. in the prompt and efficient removal of snow from our walks and highways, and also the prompt and proper sanding of the icy walks, and I daresay that many of us have never given a thought about the immense amount of work that this winter, has fallen upon the shoulders of Mr. W. J. Toomey, our Supt. of Highways. It has been at the sacrifice of time and health at all hours of the night as well as the day that Mr. Toomey has given to us the high class and efficient service that has been ours to enjoy this winter, and he deserves a great deal of credit for the way he has handled his hard job, and I for one would like to show appreciation to Mr. Toomey for his excellent service to us citizens, in the writing of this letter, with the hint to others that when things or officials please and are efficient, let us be as ready to brighten their corners by our praise as we are to knock them and their methods when things displease.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the privilege of making public this personal appreciation for Mr. Toomey's labors for our town this winter, I remain

Respectfully yours,

BERNARD R. FREEMAN,

OFFERS AID TO VETERANS

1063 Mass. Ave.
Arlington, Mass.

Arlington Advocate,
Editor:

The Veterans' Loan Bill having been passed, many vets of Arlington will want to take advantage of it but might be uncertain of the procedure, etc., in obtaining loans. I have a supply of the notes which must be executed and shall be pleased to furnish any veteran a note and also to fill out the Certificate of Identification on same as a Notary Public and to give any further information relating thereto without charge or obligation to any veteran.

I am located at 1063 Massachusetts avenue, near Brattle street, and might be of assistance to veterans in this section of Arlington. I make this offer as a Veteran of the World War, wishing to aid my brother veterans.

Very truly yours,
JAMES B. CONNOLLY.

Boy Scout Notes

Training Course Meetings
The Scout Leaders' Training Course group spent Saturday afternoon of last week at Camp Oak in instruction and practice of the outdoor scout work.

Each man was required to cook a quarter of a pound of meat and two potatoes without cooking utensils in an open fire, the same as any boy passing second class tests. Instruction in tracking and laying of trails was given by Peter J. Jervardi, Scoutmaster of Troop 5. Deputy Scout Commissioner P. K. Griffin handled the subject of "Walking". Robert W. Sprunt, Scoutmaster of Troop 1, demonstrated the laying out of a four-acre field by the pace method. Scoutmaster Jones of Troop 2 gave instruction in the use of the compass.

After supper most of the leaders visited the Norumbega Council Exhibit to get suggestions for next year's exhibit in this Council.

The following meeting on this course was held on March 5. Kelsey G. Reed, Scoutmaster of the course, spoke on "Methods and Devices for Promoting Troop Morale and Scout Advancement" and Dr. Franklin P. Hawkes, chairman of the Council Court of Honor, spoke on "The Good Turn in Scouting in Its Relation to Citizenship".

There are 23 leaders enrolled in this course in the "Elements of Scoutmastership".

Camp Oak Busy Place

Camp Oak was a busy place this last week during the school vacations. 13 Scouts of Troop 8 of the Orthodox Congregational church, under the leadership of Scoutmaster Richard W. Frost and Assistant Scoutmaster Edwin I. Brainard, spent Thursday at Camp Oak practicing cooking and other out-door tests and enjoyed a hare and hound race and the game of capture the flag.

Troop 7, of St. Agnes church, under the leadership of Scoutmaster George R. Wright, spent two weekends and a part of the middle of the week at Camp Oak.

Troop 6, of the First Baptist church, under the leadership of Scoutmaster John S. Crosby, spent Thursday at Camp.

Various other troops were present at some time during the week.

THREE HUNDRED CLASS IN UNDISPUTED LEAD

At this stage of the game it looks as though the Three Hundred Class has gained such a lead in the Union Church Bowling League that it will be impossible to cut down. Last Monday night the bowlers increased their advantage materially by defeating the First Baptists four to nothing.

The real battle exists for second place between the Universalists and the First Baptists. They are at present tied with thirty-seven points won and twenty-seven lost.

SIXTY-SEVEN PER CENT OF VOTERS CAST THEIR BALLOTS

The election Monday constituted a record in the number of votes polled. Sixty-seven percent of the voting population saw its duty and exercised the privilege of citizenship. Ten thousand nine hundred and thirteen votes were cast.

Several factors contributed to the record vote. There were, of course, exciting contests for almost every important office, especially that of Selectman. The day was perfect. It is estimated that had the day been stormy, the vote would not have exceeded eight thousand.

But the figures of the last three elections show that the vote is increased by about two thousand every year. In 1929, 8946, and in 1931, 10,913. So it is seen that one of the main contributors to the record vote is the natural growth of the town.

Speaking in percentages, Precinct 11 was the banner section, with precincts 10, 6 and 9 running along very close. All these went over the seventy percent mark. Neither the Eastern section nor the Heights section of the town did as well as the Center, three of the lower precincts running under sixty percent of the registered voters. The percentages of the registered voters who went to the polls are as follows:

Precinct One	62%—Wyman
" Two	58%—Collins
" Three	56%—Wyman
" Four	58%—Wyman
" Five	67%—Collins
" Six	73%—Wyman
" Seven	68%—Collins
" Eight	63%—Wyman
" Nine	71%—Wyman
" Ten	75%—Collins
" Eleven	77%—Collins
" Twelve	65%—Wyman
" Thirteen	55%—Collins
" Fourteen	59%—Wyman

The above shows that eight precincts were carried by Arthur P. Wyman to six by Leonard Collins. But Mr. Collins received tremendous majorities in precincts five and seven, which carried him into the lead by twenty-five votes.

COMMODITY PRICES TO DROP STILL FURTHER
SAYS CHAMBERLAIN

are all over the country. He lives in Lexington and is a former Selectman.

To begin with, we are a creditor nation to the tune of $16,000,000,000. Foreign nations must pay this huge debt either in gold or in commodities. If we accepted the latter, prices in this country would hit the toboggan with a vengeance. And we have more gold now than we know what to do with. We cannot get it. We have about fifty percent of the world's total supply right in this country at the present time.

It looks as though we would have to cancel some of these huge debts for our own good. The danger in that course lies in the fact that the money released in foreign countries would probably be used to increase armaments and precipitate war. If we do make some cancellations, and it seems inevitable that such a course will be necessary, they should not be made unless the released country absolutely promises not to put the money into armaments under pain of retraction.

Depends Upon Gold

The speaker pointed out on his chart that the period from 1896 to 1915 was one of steadily rising prices. Following that there was the war of course, and prices rocketed to Civil War peaks. But the period of steady rise was accompanied by a steady increase in the gold production of the world. Prices rose because of the abundance of gold.

But now gold production is falling off. The rich gold mines of South Africa are practically exhausted. So that unless the money standard is changed from gold to some other medium or unless adjustments are made in Geneva for more rational distribution of gold over the entire world, prices must come down.

Prices are down now, but they will go lower. When such a condition occurs, it follows that the present high scale of wages cannot be maintained. The manufacturer cannot put his product out at a loss. He must be able to reduce his running expenses.

At the close of his talk Mr. Chamberlain injected a bit of optimism, doubtless influenced by the long faces which he saw about him. Iron, one of our vital industries, is on the upturn. New blast furnaces are starting up. And they do not put a blast furnace into operation unless a market for months ahead is assured, for they cannot be operated successfully unless they run twenty-four hours a day, including Sundays and holidays.

Mr. Chamberlain does not think that the unemployment situation in this country is so bad, either. There are 2,300,000 people in this country out of work who normally would be employed. The rest are only working spasmodically even in the best of times. The combined income of the 2,300,000 which would be earned in time of prosperity is only 4% of the wealth of the country.

MASS FARM PRODUCTION TO UNEMPLOYMENT FUND

In a discussion with the Advocate reporter after the meeting, Mr. Chamberlain pointed out that other factors are of prime importance. He says that no matter how many manufactured articles are produced, these things can not create wealth. Basically, all our wealth comes from the ground. In other words, the prosperity of the country and the world depends upon the farm.

If Russian wheat, for instance, forces the price of domestic wheat down to fifty cents a bushel, the standards of the whole country must come down to that level.

MINISTERS GIVE $128.88
TO UNEMPLOYMENT FUND

When the Arlington Ministers' Association held its regular monthly meeting on Monday at Cedar Hill, Waltham, the report of the committee on the union service was heard. There is left from the collection taken at that service, after all expenses have been paid, $128.88. This has been given to the Arlington Unemployment Social Service Fund.

HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER
KILLS LOUIS BARCHEY

As he was crossing Massachusetts avenue, just over the Lexington line, Louis Barchey, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Barchey of 35 Woodbury street, was killed by a hit-and-run driver early Tuesday evening. He had just started from his father's store, dragging a loaded express cart when the older man heard a scraping sound and rushed out to see what had happened.

He found his son face down on the sidewalk, dead. He fainted beside him.

The driver is being sought by the Lexington Police, but not much progress has been made, since no one saw the accident, so far as is known. The car is described as a tan colored Essex sedan with a broad red stripe on the body. One headlight was out when seen. The boy was heavy for his age, so that the machine must have been considerably damaged by the impact.

The Arlington police received a bit of information last night which may lead to a capture.

LAYMEN'S LEAGUE HEARS
CORRECTION COMMISSIONER

The Laymen's League of the First Parish held its mid-winter banquet last Friday in the parish hall. It was a very successful affair. After a delicious supper served by Rufus Blake, a short business meeting was conducted, with John E. Swensen presiding.

The speaker of the evening, Dr. A. Warren Stearns, Commissioner of Correction, was introduced by Ernest R. Moore, one of his classmates at Tufts College. Dr. Stearns gave a very fine address on the Criminal Mind, including a comparison between the normal and the criminal mind which was very striking.

Among the significant statements were the following: that murders were reduced 50% in Massachusetts since the restriction of immigration; that most of our serious criminal cases were the product of the primitive mind and that the crimes were committed by people who were not able to adjust themselves to the customs of the societies of which they had become a part, and that the majority of cases at the Concord Reformatory were the result of broken homes.

The speaker answered many questions. The meeting was a very interesting and profitable one.

STROLLERS TO ENTERTAIN AT SPORTSMAN'S POP CONCERT

The members of the Middlesex Sportsman's Association are holding an "Old Timer's Night" in the club house by the pond next Thursday evening, under the direction of a ladies' committee. It will be a pop concert for which the "Strollers", a local professional group, will furnish an evening of entertainment.

The program will consist of two one-act plays, "Bargains" and "Group Photograph", readings by Miriam Hendrick Cahalin and Sarah Merriman Powers, a group of songs by C. Everett Hale, baritone soloist, and "Amateur Night in Miners Bowery Theatre".

The Strollers are under the direction of Sarah Merriman Powers. Those who will take part in the plays are Miriam Hendrick Cahalin, Elizabeth Hoxie, Florence Smith, Sarah Merriman Powers, Richard Bird, C. Everett Hale, Charles E. Hale, Wallace M. Powers and Parker Wood.

The committee in charge is composed of Mrs. Roger W. Homer, chairman; Mrs. Brad Swift, Mrs. Harold Tilton, Mrs. Fred Harvey, Mrs. Everett Cobb, Mrs. Edward Hildreth and Mrs. Charles Wyman.

HEIGHTS METHODIST LADIES
RE-ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

The Ladies Aid of the First Methodist church held its annual meeting Wednesday evening at the church. About forty members enjoyed the covered dish supper which was served under the direction of Mrs. Weston Craig and Mrs. Brown.

At the business meeting which followed, the officers who have served for the past year were re-elected. They are: president, Mrs. E. A. Bean; vice-president, Mrs. M. Bartley; secretary, Mrs. Walter P. Barthelmy; treasurer, Mrs. Spaulding.

The entertainment included a reading by Mrs. Williams, a song, "Ten Little Indians", Mrs. Ames, Miss Gott, Miss Evelyn Stoker and Miss Evelyn Murray, and readings by Miss Myrtle Johnson. There were brief speeches by the president and the pastor of the church, Rev. R. M. Broeg.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S FELLOWSHIP

Austin W. Crowe has been elected president of the Young People's Fellowship which was recently organized by the young people of the Church of Our Saviour. The other officers are, secretary, Frances Travers; treasurer, Anna Gordon; vice-president of fellowship, Frances Travers; of study, Fred Spence; of service, Jessie MacKenzie, and of worship, Warren Hunt. Miss Carrie Hutchinson is the advisor of the group.

Meetings are held in the vestry of the Church of Our Saviour every Sunday evening at a quarter past six. Last Sunday evening Warren Hunt and Rev. Warren N. Bixby, rector of the church, talked on Mohammedanism. Refreshments served at the close of the meeting were in charge of Frances Travers. Next Sunday evening there will be an open forum on the question, "Are the Movies a Detriment to Boys and Girls?"

The group is an enthusiastic one and their meetings promise to be interesting. Wednesday evening at the home of Austin Crowe the cabinet drew up a constitution and planned programs for several Sunday evenings. They will be glad to welcome any young people, whatever their church affiliations, as members of the Fellowship.

VOTE ARLINGTON GIRL
BEST ENTERTAINER ON BOAT

Bernice Gorman of 35 Chandler street won the prize for being the best entertainer on board the Steamship Allegheny on its recent trip to Florida. She gave several readings. Bernice, who is eleven years old, made the trip with her mother, Mrs. Joseph T. Gorman. Mrs. Gorman expects to return to Arlington soon, but Bernice will stay there with her aunt until June. She is a pupil of Miss Virginia Hunt.

FELLOW CITIZENS

I must inform you there will be nothing new on your paint problem this week. My rather long article came to you last week as promised. "But", it put me out of commission. And just a word regarding that article.

It was clear and instructive, and I know convincing, because I have been so informed many times.

It explained in detail, every angle of this paint problem, its dangers, and the only way you can avoid them. And it is head-banging how any shrewd, hard-headed business man, can afford to ignore it. On one hand he gets practically nothing, on the other hand are the men of proven ability, integrity, and a reputation to guard and uphold. And this high standard was achieved by the use of stock of only the highest quality.

And real stock, my friends, is the whole works. During my 23 years in Arlington I have painted hundreds of houses, and not one pound of paint was ever mixed in my shop for one of them. And never did I, or one of my employees ever mix a number of ingredients in my shop, tie a piece of burlap over it, bring it to your house and call it paint. On the contrary, Strictly Pure White Lead, Linseed Oil and Colors ground in Oil, Always has been, and always will be brought to your house intact, and there opened and mixed in colors to suit.

Late last fall I mailed twenty cards which read as follows:—

For reference and business purposes, I am asking the endorsement of every one I have done work for the past year. I feel sure everyone of you would add more, but all I ask is your signature.

Seventeen cards and three letters came home to roost. And as I have a little space, and the time being appropriate, I am pleased to again announce as well patrons the names of such well known and highly respected citizens as Wm. E. Wood, Willard A. Wallace, Wm. A. Cann, Florence A. Metcalf, D. L. Tappan, Roy R. Smith, T. C. Adams, Mrs. Peter Schwamb, Alton Tupper, L. E. A. Smith, E. R. Barker, H. E. Merrill, F. E. Thompson, J. Frank Jaques, Harry Davies, Michael Healy, Frank V. Noyes.

PLAY AND TALK
PLEASE AT OPEN
MEETING OF AID

Board Members Dramatize
Rummage. Dr. McGillicuddy Speaks.

The program offered by the Board of the Symmes Hospital Aid Association at the open meeting Wednesday afternoon in the vestry of the First Parish church was much enjoyed by the large number who, in spite of the storm, attended.

Dr. Helen I. D. McGillicuddy, educational secretary of the Massachusetts Society for Social Hygiene, spoke on "Boy and Girl Relationships". She was introduced by Mrs. Lester Gustin, president of the Aid, who presided at the meeting. Dr. McGillicuddy spoke particularly of young people between the ages of twelve and twenty. She stressed the fact that moving pictures and jazz had brought about a change and created problems which made it impossible to judge young people of today by the standards of the past generation.

When children have reached the adolescent period, she said, the father should take the responsibility of the boy and the mother of the girl. There should be a spirit of comradeship and friendliness such that the boy will take his problems to his father and the girl hers to the mother. However, in the effort to foster this friendliness, it should not be forgotten that children need the companionship of others of their own age. It should be remembered, too, that the effort to keep children too close to their parents is apt to make mollycoddlers of them. They should be allowed to take the initiative but should be directed.

The child, she emphasized, has his own point of view. This must be respected. Dr. McGillicuddy told many stories to illustrate her points. She spoke particularly of the moving pictures in which the young people get many undesirable suggestions.

An original play acted by members of the Board portrayed a Board meeting to which the actors came dressed in articles taken from rummage sales. Not only were the costumes funny but the reports of the officers were filled with hits on the different members. Those who took part were Mrs. Ray Mauger, who acted the part of the president; Miss Isabel Hallett, Mrs. James Kidder, Mrs. Robert Murphy, Mrs. Sidney Sandberger, Mrs. Levi Watts, Jr., Mrs. Alden Richardson, Mrs. Allen Kimball, Mrs. Walter Chamberlain, Mrs. William Black, Mrs. Fred Nichols, Mrs. Warren Seavey, Mrs. Carl Barstow, Mrs. Harold Stork and Mrs. Albert Cutter.

Delicious ice cream and home-made cakes were served after the entertainment, while a trio composed of Dorothea Evans, fute; Alexander Davidson, piano, and Purcell Lester, violin, played selections, among them some lovely familiar airs.

towns. However, the Finance Committee hinted that economy would be wise and the weather report said, "a light snow" and promised fair weather by yesterday morning.

Accordingly, Mr. Robinson said to Superintendent William J. Toomey Thursday night that he didn't think the streets would need plowing. Mr. Toomey, according to his custom, had the sidewalks plowed out early and often, so that in the morning the walks were clear, but the streets were a "mess".

It was hard, however, to get quick action. The town plows, four of them, were sent out at eight but a part of the equipment used in clearing up the snow does not belong to the town but had to be hired. It took time to get this out. However, the work of clearing up the Center was completed last night, and Arlington streets once again are in their usual condition.

WOMAN'S CLUB SEES FIRST
PICTURES OF GREAT STORM

Members of the Arlington Woman's Club who were not present yesterday afternoon missed one of the most interesting and unusual meetings held thus far this season. The singer was Dorothy Richardson, who sang so gloriously at Arlington's Music Festival in June. She gave two groups of songs. The first included two German songs and one French song. These called forth a hearty encore, but it was her Negro Spirituals that found the hearts of her audience. They were "Since You Went Away", "Deep River", "I Know the Lord Has Laid His Hand on Me", "O Shepherd, Feed My Sheep", and for encore, "Steal Away". She was enthusiastically received.

The speaker was Alton Hall Blackington, who had chosen as his subject, "The Romance of News Gathering". That there is romance as well as thrills in the profession in which he is a peer, was demonstrated over and over again in the wonderfully interesting story. The fearful storm of yesterday that lashed the shores of Winthrop and Revere made material for thrilling pictures and Arlington saw the first, showing of some of these, for Mr. Blackington had come direct from making them. Apologizing for his unshaven appearance, which was the result of having been on the job constantly from the time the storm began until he arrived in Arlington without lunch.

These were but a few of the pictures shown. Others included such front page stories as the flood of Vermont a few years ago, the Nashua fire, forest fires on the cape and many others. It was apparent that he was a lover of New England and all its beauty spots.

The etchings, woodblocks and lithographs shown were most interesting. The program was in charge of Mrs. Herman Gammons, who made the introductions.

CLARE CLASS HOLDS MEETING AND SOCIAL

The Clare Class held its monthly business meeting and social in the parlors of the First Baptist church Monday evening. Mrs. Raymond Barnes presided and Mrs. Arthur Clare gave a review of the past month's lessons. Mrs. Harry Smith had charge of the social hour during which games were played. Refreshments were served by a committee headed by Mrs. L. E. A. Smith. Her assistants were Mrs. Ralph Hunt, Mrs. John Blevins, Mrs. Nelson Crosby, Mrs. H. B. Vein and Mrs. Harrison Evans.

Sunday afternoon there was a fire in a closet in the house owned by Daniel Tappan at 16 Linwood street. William S. Davis is the occupant.
